SARANAC CENTRAL SCHOOL

Saranac, N.Y.

We come from far and near . . .

Saranac Building

WHEN days at Saranac Central are but dimly remembered, may you be able to open this door to the past and recall with vividness the opportunities for learning and inspiration and for fun and friendship which were yours within these walls. Indeed may this yearbook recall for you all the joys and benefits derived from those youthful days at Saranac, particularly the school years 1960-1961.

We take this opportunity to thank Mr. and Mrs. Miller and Mrs. Bates, who helped with the business and financial part of this book; George Tedford for his art work on the cover and division pages; Mr. Williams for his advice on the art work; and Mr. Cole for his general guidance in the building of this, the 1961 Tomahawk.

Class History

SEPTEMBER 8, 1957: The new army of recruits arrived at the trenches in good order. All trainees were accounted for, including our fellow classmates from Morrisonville, who had been drafted to Saranac for the duration of their enlistment. They were exhausted and nervous but in good spirits. Some of them were eager to charge at once into the No Man's Land of Education, but they were restrained by stronger members of the class who sat on their heads and thus reduced the swelling. Among those who were particularly eager to charge were George Waddy, Loraine Bruce, and Joe Tokarz. Among those who did the sitting were Herb Farrell, Kathleen Canning, and Bernie Brault. Thus from the start did they nobly serve the class of 1961.

Since we had now been promoted to the upstairs rooms of this great educational center, it took a little while to learn just where we had all been stationed. For us, as the freshman class, the first week of school was a nightmare of pouncing upper classmen ready with a tube of lipstick for decorative purposes, a peanut to be pushed down the hall by a freshman's nose, or any of a million other initiation tricks.

After the ordeal of initiation, the freshmen settled down for the four years of hardship and struggle for freedom. At our first uprising (class meeting), we chose as our leaders Myrtle Venne, president; Dan Rivers, vice president; Karen Hulihan, treasurer; and Sandra Akey, secretary. We started at once on the financial road to New York City by having record hops and selling school banners. Our "Voice of the People" representatives (Student Council members) were Mary Lou Everleth and Chester Blair.

AS SOPHOMORES we chose Joe Tokarz, president; Jean Connell, vice president; Sandy Akey, secretary; and Jim Sipe, treasurer. We chose "Upward, Onward and Forward" as our class motto to match our educational spirit. One of our fund-raising campaigns was selling name labels. We also had record hops and square dances to add to our ever-growing finances.

In our sophomore year we were all pleased that Carolyn Jock was chosen Queen to represent Saranac Central in the Frosty Frolics at Plattsburgh.

Class History

THE BIG event of our junior year was, of course, the Junior Prom. "Stairway to the Stars" was the theme. For our king and queen we chose Carolyn Joack and Jim Sipe. Girls in the queen's court were Mary Lou Everleth, Phyllis King, Jean Connell, Karen Hulihan, Sandy Akey, and Patsy Conroy. The boys in the court were John Yasment, Bob Bessette, Mickey Hackett, Maynard Smart, Jim Layhee, and Eugene Washer. We will never forget the fun we had decorating the gym and the thrill of the big night itself.

In our junior year Jim Layhee was our president; Dan Rivers, vice president; Sandy Akey, secretary; and Jean Connell, treasurer. Our Crusaders for Shorter Classes, Less Homework and Longer Lunch Hours (Student Council members) were Kennethea LaPlante, Chester Blair, Mary Lou Everleth, and Phyllis King.

As juniors we edited and published the school yearbook. The staff for the 1960 Tomahawk included Patty Marshall, editor; George Waddy, assistant editor, who became editor when Patty Marshall moved to California; Phyllis King, business manager; Mary Lou Everleth, subscription manager. Others on the staff were Sandy Akey, Karen Hulihan, and Bob Bessette.

A thrilling occasion during this year was the arrival of our class rings. We were the first class to receive them in the junior year.

WE ARE now finally seniors and are eagerly awaiting our class trip. For our senior class officers we have chosen Mary Lou Everleth, president; George Waddy, vice president; Sandy Akey, secretary; and Phyllis King, treasurer. Our Student Council representatives are Kennethea LaPlante, Steve White, Phyllis King, Loraine Bruce, and Eugene Washer.

Our biggest money-making projects were a magazine campaign and the sale of Christmas cards. In these projects were constantly urged on by our class advisors, Mrs. Glasgow, Mr. Davies, and Mr. Alexander.

AS THE four years of work and fun draw to an end, we are all looking forward to our last spree in New York City with our classmates.

In the heart of every senior I am sure there is sadness at the thought of leaving these familiar halls. We will always look back on our high school years with pleasant thoughts and fond memories.

- Florence Rock

SCHOOL LIFE

At Work . . .

ON THIS and the next few pages is shown a sampling of classroom activities - a few of the opportunities for learning in our school. Of course, there are many others which space does not permit us to show.

MATHEMATICS

In the past two or three years mathematics courses have seen a marked increase in enrollment. Our school offers elementary algebra, plane geometry, intermediate algebra, trigonometry, and advanced algebra.

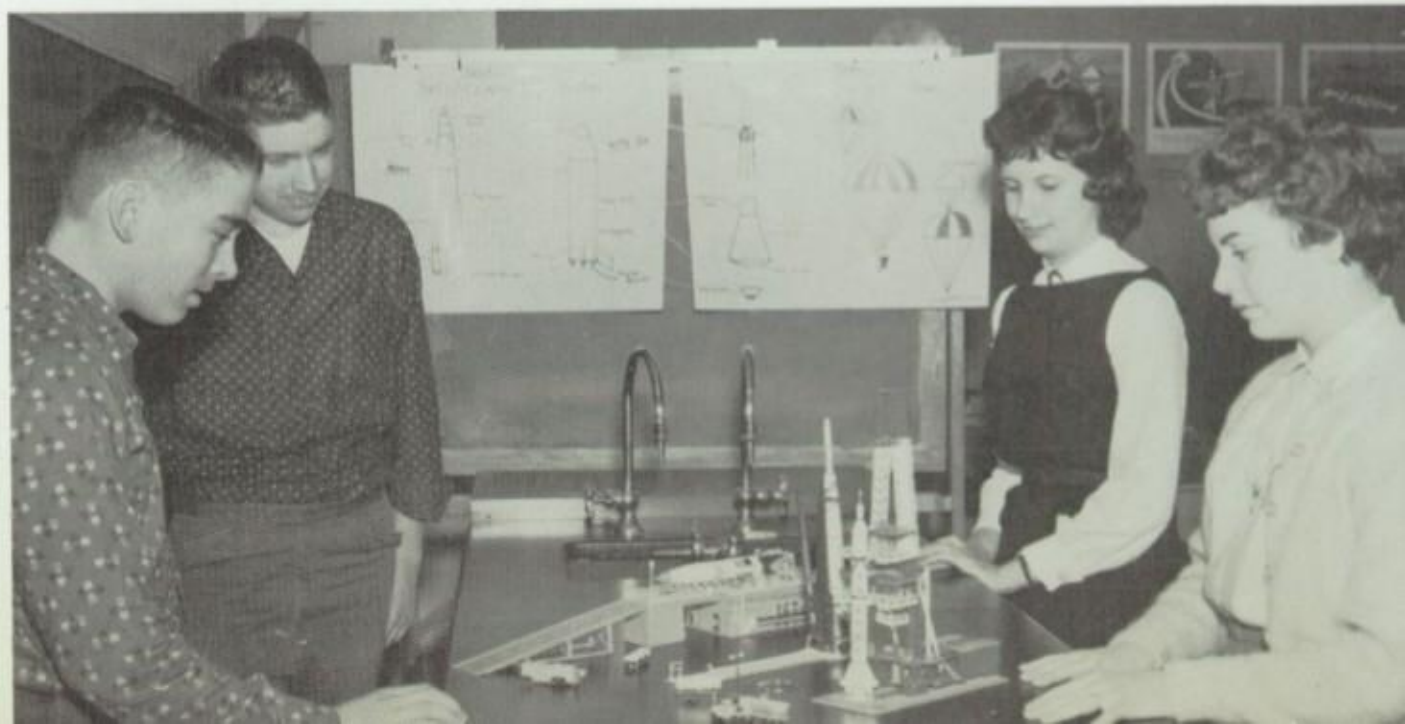

HIGH SCHOOL SCIENCE

The physics course offered in our school is experimental and sponsored by the National Science Foundation. The three boys pictured here are conducting an experiment to determine a relationship between forces and acceleration. For science majors, our school offers also excellent courses in biology and chemistry.

JUNIOR HIGH SCIENCE

Here a group of general science pupils view and exhibit prepared for the Science Fair. Ninth grade general science deals with four areas - electricity, heat, mechanics, and sound.

... in the Classrooms

ENGLISH

In addition to busying themselves with the study of conventional grammar, the writing of frequent themes, and the improvement of spoken English, boys and girls of today must come to appreciate the great literature of all ages. Not by any means the least important phase of this study is the examination and evaluation of the ever-expanding field of mass communications including newspapers, magazines, movies, radio, television and paperbacks.

HIGH SCHOOL SOCIAL STUDIES

The social studies classes in senior high, by making use of reference books, documentary articles, mass media, and audio-visual aids, have discovered that knowledge of past history helps them as citizens to plan for the future of the United States. Each student is encouraged to discuss today's problems in the light of historical facts.

JUNIOR HIGH SOCIAL STUDIES

In junior high social studies a considerable amount of time is devoted to the further development of familiar skills and the use of new skills as is evidenced by this picture of a seventh grade class working on a map project.

At Work . . .

HOMEMAKING

In this picture eighth grade homemaking pupils are working on clothing projects. The homemaking program includes classes for all junior high girls, elective courses for high school girls, and a high school boys' class. Course content includes work in clothing, foods and nutrition, health, homemaking, home nursing, safety, consumer buying, management, child care, housing, and home furnishings.

ART

In the Basic Art class students are exposed to the elements of art - color, line, texture, form, light and dark, with the purpose of encouraging the discovery and appreciation of the beauty of the world around us no matter how small, large, simple, or complex.

INSTRUMENTAL MUSIC

The instrumental music department encompasses three organizations - beginning, elementary, and senior bands. A junior band is planned for the future. The beginning and elementary bands are composed of pupils from all three schools; the senior band, of students in Grades 7-12. The picture at the right shows the new band uniforms acquired this year. Included in the instrumental program are two annual concerts and a summer program for the continuing instruction and participation in a marching band.

DRIVER EDUCATION

Driver Education pupils learn the principles of the operation of cars. The course is concerned primarily with developing a responsible, considerate attitude on the part of each pupil toward the vehicle, the traffic rules, and others on the road. School class time does not permit adequate practice for pupils to become skilled drivers, but it does teach them their capabilities and their limitations regarding driving and how to react intelligently to them.

INDUSTRIAL ARTS

In woodworking courses students learn the operation of machinery, model house construction, and furniture construction. Metal work courses cover sheet metal work, bench work, machine shop, and gas and arc welding.

COMMERCIAL

The office practice class pictured at the right consists of students taking the opportunity of learning to run business machines and learning the general procedure of working in a business office. In addition to office practice, commercial students may take general business, business mathematics, business law, typewriting, bookkeeping, shorthand and transcription, salesmanship, and business management.

The Library

The school library today is a far cry from the little book case in the corner of the principal's office which comprised the school library fifty years ago. More and more it is becoming the heart of the school the heart of its instructional program. Modern instruction is not confined to the contents of the textbook; instead, the whole world and its ever-expanding knowledge is today's textbook. The library, through its thousands of books and the guidance of a trained librarian, is one of the principal agencies which bring that world to the student.

Students use the library during their study hall periods when they have research to do for one of their classes or when they wish to explore the world of books and broaden their horizons by free and independent reading.

Pictured on this page is a group of outstanding seventh and eighth grade students who were chosen for an honors course in the use of books and libraries. Instruction covers not only how to use the library tools and reference books but also how to study. The group meets once a week as a class, and each member serves as a library assistant three periods a week.

Wrestling

UNTIL 1958 schools in Clinton County did not engage in interscholastic wrestling. Since then, sparked by the efforts of our own Coach Davies, wrestling has developed into an important high school sport in this area.

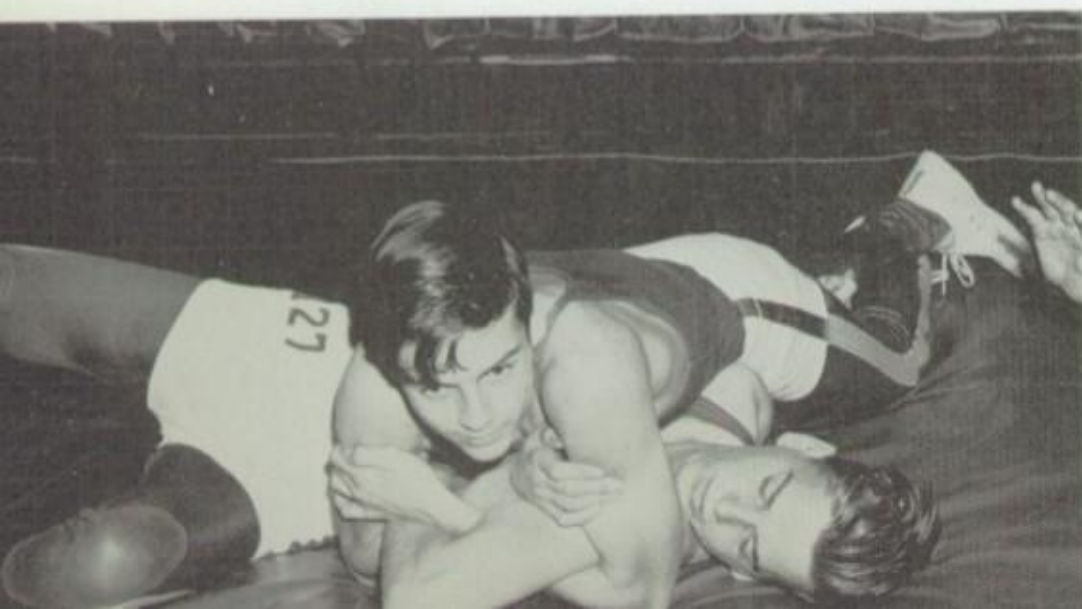

In the fall of 1960 six schools in the county - Altona, Ausable Forks, Keeseville, Peru, Plattsburgh, and Saranac - formed the Champlain Valley Wrestling League. In this league ours is the outstanding team, having won all of its meets of the current season up to the present time. At the time of this writing, every team in the League has been met once, two of them twice.

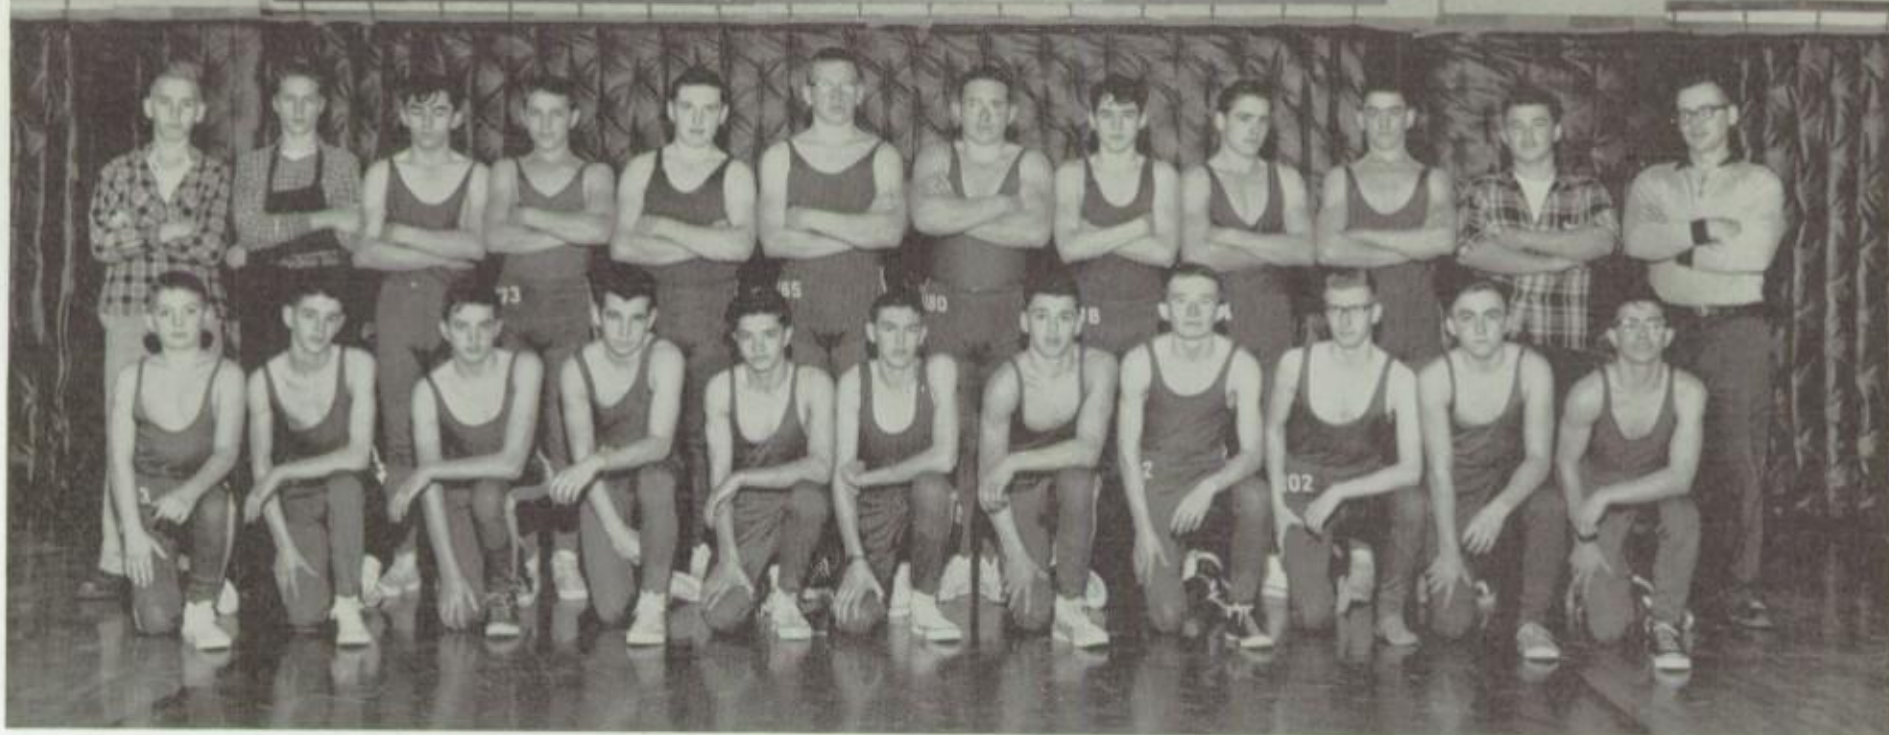

In addition to the League teams, our wrestlers have also met Potsdam, Canton, and Ogdensburg during the present season. Last year the team traveled to Montreal and defeated the Montreal All-Stars at McGill University.

Though there was no league in the area before the present school year, the Saranac wrestlers won the Section Seven Championship in 1959 and again in 1960. In February 1961 they won permanent possession of the Lion's Club trophy by defeating Peru the second time in the past three years.

Five champions were among our 1959-60 wrestlers: John St. John, Mike Norcross, Gordon Lamay, Roy Marshall, and Bob Bessette. The last three are on this year's team.

This year's grapplers appear to be on the way to another championship, and with an abundance of junior varsity material now gaining experience under Coach Davies' guidance, the next few years also look bright for Saranac Central in the field of wrestling.

Basketball

Watch It!

THE 1960-1961 basketball season saw the S.C.S. Varsity have, by far, the best record in the history of our school. While compiling 13 wins and only 1 loss in C.C.I.L. play and an over-all record of 17 and 2, the Chiefs topped the 70 point mark ten times. The fighting Red and White lost an early game to Champlain, but made it up with eleven straight victories.

In the annual All-Star game, team effort brought home another victory. The game was close all the way, with the All-Stars leading through the entire game, up to the final seconds, by a close margin. Jeff Layhee scored three needed points in the last seconds to provide the margin in the 73 to 70 decision.

At this writing, Saranac is about to meet the Beekmantown Eagles in the Section VII finals, after beating Plattsburgh High in a thrilling 62-61 game. This will long be remembered as the best high school game the North Country will see for years to come.
